CONVENTION DECIDEDLY NOT OF CUT AND DRIED ORDER

Considerable Ginger Injected Into Proceedings

CAROTHERS NOT ENDORSED

Congressman Tener Not Resigned Yet, and Conferees Are Not Named

The meeting of the Republican county committee at Washington yesterday was an animated one, and although J. Frank McClay was elected county chairman, O. M. Henderson, secretary and George E. Lockhart treasurer without opposition, the proceedings were decidedly not of the cut and dried order. In view of the fact that the committee was delegated the power by the recent State convention to name conferees to join with conferees of the other counties of the district in nominating a Congressman to succeed John K. Tener, who is the candidate for Governor, considerable "ginger" was injected into the proceedings by the friends of candidates who seek the nomination.

This cropped out after the election of Chairman McClay, when the movement was apparent among the friends of Assemblyman C. E. Carothers to get an endorsement for him for Congress. As Congressman Tener has not yet resigned, and has not been officially notified of his nomination as Governor, it was not thought expedient by many of the committeemen present to appoint the conferees or make endorsements at this time. Accordingly D. M. McCloskey, Esq., who held the proxy of Wylie McCarthy as committeemen for the second Charleroi precinct, presented the following resolution:

We, the members of the Republican county committee of Washington county, in convention assembled do hereby declare and resolve; that

Whereas, a vacancy may occur in the nomination by the Republican party for the office of representative in Congress from the 24th Congressional district of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, in view of the fact that such vacancy has not yet occurred which would render null and void the selection of conferrees to represent ths county at this time; and

Whereas, any endorsement by this committee at the present time would be legally of no effect.

Whereas, the rules of the Republican party of the State provide for the selection of conferees by the several county commttees comprising said district; therefore it is hereby

Declared and resolved by this committee that if said vacancy shall occur, we do hereby delegate the selection of said conferees to the chairman and executive committee of the Republican party of Washington county, and we further instruct the conferees so selected that they use their fullest efforts to secure the nomination for Congress for a citizen of Washington county.

Before this came up for ballot an amendment endorsing C. E. Carothers for Congress was presented. This was declared out of order by Chairman McClay, amid a storm of protest on the part of Carothers' friends. A roll call on the McCloskey resolution showed that it had carried by a vote of 60 to 42, and the county chairman and executive committee will accordingly select the six conferees who will help to make the Congressional nomination to fill the impending vacancy when it occurs. There is a difference of opinion as to the legality of this proceeding, some contending that delegated, authority cannot be re-delegated while others claim that it is optional with the committee to select conferees as a majority may see fit.

After this proceeding the convention adopted resolutions commending the party harmony that prevails in Nation, State and county. President Taft's administration and the new tariff bill were endorsed, as well as the State party platform and the administration of Governor Stuart. The attitude of the party on the question of good roads was commended, and the county commissioners were handed some bouquets for their economical administration and for reducing the county tax levy. A tribute was paid John K. Tener, candidate for Governor, which is quoted editorially elsewhere in this assue.

Dr. F. L. Crow, committeeman of the first Charleroi precinct, presented the name of O. M. Henderson, who was chosen secretary of the county committee, and Councilman Oscar C. Linn, committeeman from the third precinct, was honored with a place on the committee on resolutions.

Inquest Will Be Held Wednesday

Coroner Heffran Announces Time for Investigation of Auto Accident

Coroner James T. Heffran has set Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock as the date for holding the inquest on the death of William Hamilton, and son Roy Hamilton, killed in the automobile accident Sunday afternoon. The inquest will be held at the undertaking rooms of Correll and Crowley.

HEMORRHAGE OF BRAIN INDUCED BY FALL, THE CAUSE OF MAN'S DEATH

Coroner Heffran Holds Inquest to Investigate Demise of Ernest Habester, Who Was Found On the Streets

An inquest was held last night by Coroner James T. Heffran at the undertaking rooms of Correll and Crowley on McKean avenue to inquire into the death of Ernest Habester, the man who was found injured on a vacant lot on McKean avenue last week and died in the hospital. The following vedict was returned by the jury:

"We, the jury, find that Ernest Habeser came to his death from hemorrhage of the brain on June 24, 1910, the said hemorrhage having been caused by a fall in the streets of Charleroi. We are satisfied from the evidence that there was no foul play in connection with the death, and we fully exonerate the police department of Charleroi from any blame whatever."

The jury consisted of William E. Harper, Dr. G. H. Smith, George Leith, Daniel Shields, Frank McCaffery and M. T. Crowley.

EX-PRESIDENT OF COLLEGE TO MAKE CLASS ADDRESS

Death of Member of Graduating Class of Douglas College Makes Change in Arrangements Necessary

Tonight 31 graduates of Douglas Busines college will receive their diplomas at the commencement exercises to be held at School Hall. The exercises will be somewhat saddened by the sudden death of one of the graduates, Leroy A. Hamilton, Sunday, and a chair will be draped for him.

The address to the class will be made by Rev. Arthur Staples, D. D., of the First Methodist Episcopal church of McKeesport and a former president of Beaver College. Prof. Warren Douglas of McKeesport will present the diplomas. Bosson's orchestra will furnish music for commencement.

The class valedictorian is Miss Ida Mary Good of West Brownsville. Her address will be on the topic, "The Power of Little Things." The salutatory will be said by Miss Clara G. Beigel of Charleroi, her subject to be the class motto, "I'll Find a Way or Make One." A demonstration of touch typewriting will be given by Misses May Barth, Ruth McCrory and Normal S. Hall. The class history will be read by J. B. G. Roberts and a class in rapid calculation will be conducted by Prof. Charles Menz. The invocation will be said by Rev. J. T. Hackett and the benediction by Rev. L. W. Shey.

COUNCIL WILL PROVIDE SANITARY ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FOURTH

All Preparations Being Made for Handling of Large Crowd in Charleroi on Independence Day

Council at a special called meeting last night discussed plans for handling the crowd here on the Fourth of July, and made arrangements for providing temporary sanitary arrangements. The temporary watering troughs for horses will be provided. Councilman Linn reported that two places could be secured for permanent hitching posts, one on Fifth street, above Lindsay's store, and others on Fallowfield avenue, between Third and Fourth streets. The street committee was instructed to place at the disposal of the Fourth of July committee the flag pole for use in decorating "The Pines" for the speakers' stand.

CATHOLICS WIPE UP WASHINGTON AVE. PRESBYS.

Protested on Grounds That St. Jerome's Used Professional Catcher

The Catholics gave the Washington Avenues an awful drubbing last night in what, despite the high score from one side, was a good game. The contest was played under protest of the Washington Avenues on account of Catcher Courtley, who is claimed to be a professional. The Catholics scored 13 of their 14 scores in the first three innings after which Stroud retired from the mound in favor of Fontanesi. Their final run came in the fourth on a hit, an error and an out. The Washington avenues scored in the second the third, the sixth and the seventh, through playing the game for all it was worth, but the terrible lead established by the Catholics was too great an obstacle to think of overcoming. The score:

FOSTER SON CHARGED WITH THEFT OF MONEY AND WATCH

Police Notified to Make Rigid Search for Boy

Had Only Been Back From Several Months Stay With Relatives in Ohio

The Charleroi police and police of other towns and cities in Western Pennsylvania have been notified of the disappearance of Edward Tague, the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers of 617 Meadow avenue, and are trying to locate the boy. He disappeared Sunday, and at the same time $51, a gold watch and fob, with the initials "A. J. L." on the fob and a revolver disappeared from the Rogers' home, the theft of all being blamed on the boy.

Young Tague ran away last January, and only returned home three weeks ago, having been at the home of Mrs. Rogers' brother in Ohio. He did not seem discontented, and made no excuse for his protracted absence. Sunday nothing unusual was noticed in his behavior, and about noon, he remarked that he was going to a neighbor's for a short while, and would be back. He failed to return and the loss of the money was noticed.

The boy had been with the Rogers' family for 10 years, having been secured from the Orphan's home in Perry county, Ohio, when he was six years old. When he left here he wore a blue shirt, black shoes, and had on a derby hat. He is 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighs 132 pounds, having dark brown hair and eyes. On the right side of his face there is a scar.

Sunday School Planning Outing

Pupils of St. Mary's Episcopal School Will Go To Lynn's Grove

Arrangements are being made by Superintendent E. W. Rote and members of the Sunday School of St. Mary's Episcopal church for the annual picnic and outing to be held at Lynn's Grove, near Belle Vernon, on July 7. The outing will be for the entire day.

ALL THREE MAY LIVE

Victims of Auto Accident Improved in Health This Morning

Anna Hamilton, the young woman who it was thought was fatally injured in the automobile accident above Speers Sunday, is improved this morning, and Dr. A. O. Davis, who is in charge of the patients at the Monessen-Charleroi hospital, states that he is much pleased with her condition. Mrs. Hamilton and Blanche Matheney are also much better. The change of Anna's condition has given much room for hope for her complete recovery, and the improvement in the others is also indicative that they will get well.

New Bank for Brownsville

Monongahela Railroad Officials Backing New Enterprise Up the River

Brownsville is to have a new bank soon, according to rumor from an authentic source. The bank is to be established by some of the men who are backing the Monongahela railroad, and is for the present to be established in what is known as the Rogers Block. A new building is one of the plans of the near future. It is the intention to make the bank one for carrying on a general banking business and not a trust company. The men back of the project are unusually reticent on the matter, but the rumor which has gained good foundation, is not denied.

GRADUATE TAKES UP NEWSPAPER WORK IN CITY

Miss Jessie Everhart Purchases McDonald Studio

Miss Jessie Everhart, who for some time has been employed in Babbitt's studio on McKean avenue, has purchased the photograhic studio of D. H McDonald at the corner of Fifth srteet and Fallowfield avenue. The purchase was completed Saturday, and Miss Everhart has taken charge. She will make some improvements and go into the photographic work on a large scale. She will devote her entire time to portrait work in which she has much experience, having for some time previous to coming to Charleroi been employed in the largest studio in Johnstown. She is arranging for an opening which will likely be held the latter part of this week.

An Appeal to Voters

In the resolutions adopted yesterday by the Republican county committee at Washington, a special appeal is made to the voters of Washington county to support John K. Tener of Charleroi, Reupblican nominee for the Governor, in the interests of county pride. Concerning Mr. Tener the resolution is as follows:

"When we come to a consideration of the candidates offered by the Republican party we feel that so far as Washington county is concerned, an appeal should be made to every voter of the county regardless of political affiliations, who has any pride in his home county, who would rejoice in the opportunity to confer a high honor upon a deserving and ideal citizen of the Commonwealth who is a resident of our own county and who has its interests at heart.

"We do not believe that this opportunity granted to us, who are neighbors, acquaintances and friends of the Hon. John K. Tener, who are anxious and willing in this issue and arbitrament to become his 'character witnesses,' should be neglected in testifying to every man in our Commonwealth of whatever party, who has the right of suffrage, that in choosing him as Governor of what we believe to be the greatest State in the union, they shall have selected a man who stands four squares as the ideal Americancitizen,selfmade,industrious, with a character beyond reproach, with a just pride in a well earned reputation, for the highest integrity which will insure the strictest honesty in the administration of the affairs of our great Commonwealth.

"We who know John K. Tener intimately and who know his methods, which are frequently criticized as not being those of a politician, know that what he says he will do, and we also know that no influence could be brought to bear upon him which would lead him to do anything he did not believe was just, fair, honest and for the best interests of the humblest citizen.

"While not a politician, he has demonstrated that no politician can use him, and like Roosevelt, his success has come to him by reason of the fact that the plain people knew he was trustworthy and honest.

"Having made his own way up the ladder of success, every additional rung being gained by the belief of his superiors in his worth, honesty and faithfulness, he has always stood ready to lend a hand to those less fortunate than he who are making the same arduous climb, and in this town of Charleroi, there are children who are getting the chance in life that this American government undertakes to guarantee by reason of the unostentatious charity of the big hearted John K. Tener."

The balance of the State ticket, as well as the candidates for State Senate and Legislature, are also commended, and by reason of their selection by popular vote there is no valid reason why any Republican should not give them his unqualified support.

Safe and Sane

Now is the time for parents and citizens generally to consider the true import of a safe and sane Fourth. Burgess Risbeck has issued a proclamation prohibiting within the borough the use of dynamite crackers and other highly dangerous explosives, besides cautioning care in the use of the ordinary gunpowder fire crackers. A Fourth without some sort of a demonstration would be considered un-American, but there is altogether too many fatalities and accidents in the celebration of the glorious anniversary to give no heed to the warnings issued.

Last year, according to the most avaliable statistics, there were 5,307 persons killed and wounded in the United States celebrating the annversary of American independence, for which the soldiers of the Revolution fought, bled and died. According to Bancroft's History of the United States, in seven battles of the Revolution—Lexington, Bunker Hill, Fort Moultrie, White Plains, Fort Washington, Monmouh and Cowpens—the total killed and wounded numbered but 1,119, while in seven years--1903 to 1909 inclusive--the killed and wounded from Fourth of July celebrations in the United States numbered 34,603.

With this dreadful annual slaughter staring the American people in the face it behooves parents to keep an eye on their young hopefuls and see how they expend their Fourth of July money. By keeping tab on the boy that date a big saving in undertaking and doctors' bills may be effected. A safe and sane Fourth has a most startling significance in the homes of this country.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Sunday was anything but a quiet day.

It is amusing how the railroad and trolley companies adjust the maps to suit themselves, the purpose of course being to prove that their lines are direct or nearly direct.

All things have an end, except eternity. Even Congress is not eternity.

They say that there is a fish called the sturgeon that swims the Atlantic. Who's going to prove it?

Amateur photography is said to be on the wane. It is impossible for a person of the ordinary income to follow both automobiling and photography as a pleasure so this may be one of the reasons.

Somebody has declared that there is humbug in pugilism, meaning of course that it's sort a moving picture affair with the final results to suit the man who takes the pictures.

The only thing which might go out of date quicker than a woman's hat is a battle ship.

It's rather hard to tell just who will win the big fight from the opinions of the experts, but there is conclusive evidence that it will be either Jack Johnston or Jim Jeffries.

While an areoplane may mean that women won't care so much for high priced hats and gowns, it is to be feared that they will care more for silk stockings and high heeled shoes.

The American super-dreadnaughts are quartered mostly in the Pacific ocean, because the English super-dreadnaughts have the Atlantic choked up.

NASAL CATARRH

Henry L. Britton Says it is Easy to Get Rid Of.

"My head, nose and glands leading to my eyes and nose were stopped up and swollen. I tried several so-called catarrh cures, but Hyomei, used thoroughly did the curing. There is nothing too good to say in favor of Hyomei. It cured my nasal catarrh."—Henry L. Britton, Frost St. Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Hyomei, pronounced Highome, cures catarrh, because it gets where the germs are and destroys them. It is made of Australian eucalyptus, mixed with other healing antiseptics. When breathed over the irritated and inflamed membrane, it gives relief in two mintues.

Used regularly for a few weeks it will build up and heal the germ-infested membrane and drive out catarrh.

If you own a small Hyomei pocket inhaler, you can get a bottle of Hyomei at druggists everywhere, or at Piper Bros. for only 50 cents. If you do not own a Hyomei inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, the price is $1.00. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup or sore throat or money back. 1K4

FUNERAL OF MRS. JOHNSTON ATTENDED BY MANY FRIENDS

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Johnston, who died at the Monessen-Charleroi hopsital Saturday morning, was held from the Washington avenue Prebyterian church yesterday afternoon, and was attended by large numbers of friends the deceased. The services were conducted by Rev. G. G. Kerr, pastor of the church. Interment was in the Fayette City cemetery. The floral offerings were numerous.

Gardens In the Ice.

A glacier when it dislodges itself and sails away over the Arctic ocean never travels alone. In the wake of every large one floats a line of similar companions. The Eskimos call this phenomenon "the duck and ducklings," and any one who has watched the progress of the wild duck followed by her brood will appreciate the aptitude of the name. Strange as it may seem, plants grow and blossom upon these great ice mountains. When a glacier is at rest moss attaches itself to it, protecting the ice beneath, just as sawdust does. After a time the moss decays and forms a soil, in which the seeds of buttercups and dandelions, brought by the wind, take root and flourish. Those who have traveled much in arctic lands say the poppy does not bloom during the brief northern summer.

Hairs Upon Horses' Lips.

The five hairs about the mouth of the horse are organs of touch of extreme delicacy. They serve to a certain extent the same purpose as our finger ends, the whiskers of the cat or the trunk of the elephant. Sensitiveness is due to specially developed endings of nerves in the skin, which are continually sending messages to the brain. The lip hairs of the horse first receive the stimulus, which is communicated to the end organs and so passes on to the brain. They come into play when the horse samples a new article of food. He first smells it and, having so far satisfied himself, touches it delicately with those sensitive hairs. The upper lip moves softly in quick sympathy and confirms the opinion suggested by the hairs. The tongue judges finally as to the fitness of the food. When the horse wishes to drink these hairs assure him that the water is free from foreign matter on the surface, for he drinks from the surface only. They detect the smallest particle of dirt and guide him to the purest place.

The Simple Diet.

There is a certain banker and broker doing business not a hundred miles from the bank, says a London weekly, whose health for some time has not been all that he could desire. Not long ago he was complaining to his brother, when the latter after a careful survey of his brother's countenance said:

"What you need, old man, is plain country food. Come to my place in the country and we'll soon set you up. This rich food is proving too much for you. Take breakfast, for instance. All I have is two cups of coffee, a bit of steak with a baked potato, some light muffins or a stack of buttered toast, together with a bit of watercress or lettuce. What do you have?"

For a moment the city banker gazed in hearty admiration at his brother.

"A cup of hot water and two slices of dry toast," he replied soberly. "But, Jim, if you think a simple diet like yours will 'set me up,' why, I'm perfectly willing to try it."

The Story of "Hard Hit."

"Mr. Orchardson, if I thought that by killing you I could paint a picture like yours I would stab you to the heart." Such was the remark made by Pellegrini, the famous caricaturist, to the Royal academician, Sir William Orchardson, when at a private view he first saw "Hard Hit," the picture of the ruined gambler. "It was," said the artist, "the greatest compliment I could have had." Curiously enough, the model who sat for the ruined gamester was rather fond of cards himself. One day the artist noticed that he looked somewhat depressed. "What is the matter?" he asked. "I was awfully hard hit last night," he answered. "By Jove," replied the artist, jumping up with delight, "I've got it at last! 'Hard Hit,' of course." And that is how the picture got its name.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are the squaring of the circle, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, magic and astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have toiled early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems. It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone. In the study of astrology Lilly was for a time even pensioned by parliament.

Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another. The craze for the secret, or unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.

To Take No Chances.

Hamlar—Why in the dickens have you got that string tied around your tooth?

Absente—To remind me that I must have the tooth removed.

Hamlar—But, goodness gracious, why don't you do as ordinary people and have the string tied around your finger?

Absente (stiffly)—Because, sir, I don't care to have my finger removed.—Chicago News.

Mistake of a Comma.

This instance of what a mistake of a comma can produce has been noticed:

"Lord Palmerston then entered upon his head, a white hat upon his feet, large but well polished boots upon his brow, a dark cloud in his hand, his faithful walking stick in his eye, a dark menacing glare saying nothing."—Circle Magazine.

Language of Switzerland.

It is a curious fact that the people most celebrated for love of country should in a manner be without a language—that is, a mother tongue. The Swiss have three official languages—German, French and Italian. About three-fourths of the population of the mountain confederation speak German, while the remainder divide four other languages among them, chiefly French and Italian, these languages being found, as a rule, in districts in close proximity to the countries wherein those languages are the principal tongue. In Switzerland documents and notices are printed in both the French and German languages. In the national assembly members deliver their speeches in either French or German, for nearly all members understand both tongues. The decrees and proclamations of the president are translated by an official interpreter and furnished to the press in both languages.—New York Press.

Her Fault.

The teacher in charge of the primary department at a school in West Philadelphia was talking the other day about her work and her pupils.

"They are dear youngsters," she said, "but they sometimes make curious remarks. Several times I have had occasion to reprove a little boy who isn't bad, but who is very mischievous and annoying. He is always getting into trouble and making a disturbance.

"One day he had been more than usually uproarious, and I was very tired. Instead of scolding or punishing him I began in rather an exasperated tone to talk to him.

"'Tom,' I said, 'I'm afraid I'm never going to meet you in heaven.'

"He looked up with the most shocked face. 'Why, teacher,' he said, 'isn't that just too bad? What have you done?'"—Philadelphia Times.

Quite So.

"There seems to be a strange affinity between a darky and a chicken."

"Naturally. One is descended from Ham and the other from eggs."—Housekeeper.

Easy.

"She's made a fool of that young fellow."

"Well, she didn't have to economize on the raw material."—Baltimore American.

The Social Breakfast.

A London newspaper wonders why we no longer invite people to breakfast. The reason is to be found in the state of mind that usually possesses the free and independent citizen at that hour in the morning, a state of mind that makes him unbearable to himself and to every one who comes near him. Presumably it was not ever so, for invitations to breakfast were once common enough, and not so long ago either. Mr. Gladstone used to have guests to breakfast every Thursday morning as recently as 1884, and it was thought sufficient to supply tea and coffee, eggs, bread and butter and perhaps some cold meat. But the really solid breakfast had come into fashion long before then, and it is said that the English learned the fashion from the Scotch. Motley, when he was ambassador to England, found that the substantial breakfast was grievously opposed to the simpler customs of his own country. He says, "When I reflected that all these people would lunch at 2 and dine at 8, I bowed my head in humiliation, and the fork dropped from my nerveless grasp."—Argonaut.

Big Clocks.

The big clock of the Metropolitan tower at Madison square, New York, is by long odds the costliest and most elaborate public timepiece ever constructed and is the only great clock in the world operated wholly by electricity without the touch of human hands. Some of its other wonders are its size, being the largest four dial tower clock and the third largest clock of any size in the world, and its altitude, which is the highest of any clock in the world. It has also the biggest and heaviest striking bell.

The other three largest clocks are the one face dial of the Colgate factory in Jersey City, which is forty feet across, the next in size of mammoth public chronometers being the dial at St. Bombort's, in the old city of Malines, in Belgium, which is thirty-nine feet across. St. Peter's of Zurich, Switzerland, has a dial face twenty-nine feet, and then in order comes the Metropolitan tower clock, which is twenty-six feet six inches in diameter.

The Harm of Damp Houses.

It is dangerous to health and even to life in a damp, moldy house or one built over a moldy cellar. Many years ago the London Lancet in an article on diphtheria traced the disease in certain cases to the presence of certain molds and fungoid growths which seemed to be breathed into the throat. Remember, one of the best disinfectants is lime. Moldy cloths, such as shoes and other articles that are unfit for use, should be destroyed at once.

Why He Applauded.

"Are you fond of music?" asked a stranger of the young man at the concert who was applauding vigorously after a pretty girl had sung a song in a very painful way.

"Not particularly," replied the young man frankly, "but I am extremely fond of the musician."

Out of Her Reach.

"Does your heart ever reach out for the unattainable?"

"No, but my hands do when my husband is not at home. There are three buttons at the back of my gown that I can't reach."

More Appropriate.

"I teach my parrot only short words."

"Do you? Now, I should think that parrots were better adapted to learning polysyllables."

Going Round the World.

In sailing around the world eastward the days are each a little less than twenty-four hours, according to the speed of the ship, as the sun is met a little earlier every morning. These little differences added together will amount to twenty-four hours. This gives the sailors an extra day—not in imagination, but as an actual fact. They will have done an extra day's work, eaten an extra day's ration of food and imbibed an extra day's allowance of grog.

On the other hand, in sailing westward the sun is overtaken a little each day, and so each day is rather longer than twenty-four hours, and clocks and watches are found to be too fast. This also will amount in sailing around the world to the point of departure to one whole day by which the reckoning has fallen in arrears. The eastern bound ship, then, has gained a day, and the western bound ship has lost one. This strange fact, clearly worked out, leads to the apparent paradox that the first named ship has a gain of two whole days over the latter. If we suppose them to have departed from port and returned together.—Philadelphia Record.

Modern Gold Mining.

Up until about 1850 only placer or surface gold was mined—that is, free gold, deposited in the beds of streams, in sands and in the crevices of rocks. Placer mining, mainly in new and remote regions, still furnishes a material though not a large percentage of the world's output. Formerly the alluvial gold was separated from the sands and gravels containing it by washing them in pans, cradles, rockers and sluices. In 1852 the hydraulic method was first employed in California. By this means a "giant" stream of water turned against the side of a mountain washes everything before it. The gold settles to the bottom of the tunnel or sluice through which the gravel, sand and water flow. In 1889 dredges or excavators were first used in Australia. Today steam and electric dredges produce a considerable portion of the world's output.—Byron W. Holt in Everybody's.

Why Boiled Water Freezes Easily.

Water which is hot of course cannot freeze until it has parted with its heat, but water that has been boiled will, other things being equal, freeze sooner than water which has not been boiled. A slight disturbance of water disposes it to freeze more rapidly, and this is the cause which accelerates the freezing of boiled water. The water that has been boiled has lost the air naturally contained in it, which on exposure to the atmosphere it begins again to attract and absorb. During this process of absorption a motion is necessarily produced among its particles, slight certainly and imperceptible, yet probably sufficient to accelerate its congelation. In unboiled water this disturbance does not exist. Indeed, water when kept perfectly still can be reduced several degrees below the freezing point without its becoming ice.

Life and Living.

Many a man has made a good living who has made a poor life. Some men have made splendid lives who have made very moderate and even scanty livings.

A Hard Task.

"Now, sir," said an Irish barrister with severity to a loquacious witness, "hold your tongue and give your evidence clearly!"

Happiness consists largely in being too busy to be miserable.—Sheldon.

The Peanut.

The common peanut, beloved of the small boy, grows in a way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots, with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As pigs are said to be especially fond of these, it has been suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

System Required.

Clerk—May I have a day's leave tomorrow, sir? It is my mother-in-law's funeral. Employer—My dear Hiber, this mustn't occur again. Last week your wife died, and now your mother-in-law's going to be buried. You must arrange things better in your family and see that they happen in the holidays.—Lustige Blatter.

Unkind.

Medical Man—Jobson has done the meanest thing I ever heard of. He came to my house the other night, ate a big dinner, got indigestion and then went to another doctor to be cured.

Cheering Him Up.

New Boarder—How's the fare here?

Old Boarder—Well, we have chicken every morning.

"That's first rate. How is it served?"

"In the shell."

The Way of It.

Knicker—Life is an irony.

Bocker—Yes. By the time you have the money for a grand stand seat your home team no longer wins.—New York Sun.

We make our fortunes; we call them fate.—Alroy.

A Bismarck Incident.

It used to be the privilege of Austria's representative at any conference of representatives of the German states to smoke, the others refraining. This was supposed to be an acknowledgment of Austria's supremacy. At the first conference that Bismarck attended as Prussia's representative he began to puff smoke across the conference table as soon as the Austrian diplomat lit up. That set everybody present to smoking on equal terms, and Austria's supremacy got a blow.

A Timely Warning.

"Your dog seems a very intelligent animal," remarked an inexperienced sportsman to a gamekeeper.

"Yessir," was the ready response. "Wonderful intelligent 'e is! Yes, t'other day 'e bit a gent as only give me a 'arf sovereign after a day's shoot!"—London Scraps.

Her Dear Friend.

Susie—Now, when I'm asked to sing I never say, "Oh, I can't!" I always sit down at the piano— Jennie—And let the audience find it out for themselves?—Illustrated Bits.

The First Step.

Young Woman (before milliner's window, to her maid)—That hat is perfectly lovely. I must have it. Marie, be sure to remind me to kiss my husband when I get home.

Quickly Subdued.

Von Blumer (roaring with rage)—Who told you to put paper on the wall? Decorator—Your wife, sir. Von Blumer—Pretty, isn't it?

Looks like ever'thing in the world comes right if we jes' wait long enough. —Mrs. Wiggs.

Stories of Frederick the Great.

In the course of some military evolutions Frederick the Great of Prussia, irritated by some mistake of a captain, ran after him with his stick in order to strike him. The captain ran away. The next morning the commanding officer reported to the king that the officer in question, one of the most efficient in the regiment, had sent in his papers. "Tell him to come to me," said the king. The officer, in great perturbation, came. "Good morning, major," he apostrophized the officer, who was speechless with surprise. "I wanted to tell you of your promotion, but you ran so fast I could not catch you up. Good morning."

Another time an officer attempted to get a comrade into bad odor with the king by telling his majesty that he was a drunkard. In a subsequent battle the latter's fitness was conspicuous, whereas his slanderer played a very poor part. When afterward he defiled past the king at the head of his regiment his majesty called out to him in a voice of thunder, "The sooner you take to drink the better!"

The Old Time Surgeon.

Before anaesthetics were known the surgeon's only expedient was to abridge his patient's sufferings by working rapidly. In this the old time surgeons did wonders. They had a control and a surety in their hands that are now seldom found. One day the celebrated surgeon Maisonneuve had to amputate the leg of a poor devil, who began to howl in advance. "I'll give you my watch," said the surgeon, "if the operation lasts more than a minute." The man accepted the offer, but was obliged to forego the handsome watch, as the operation took less time than it requires to describe. To amputate an arm at the shoulder is a most difficult operation. Dr. Langenbeck of Germany did it in two minutes. A young physician who came to see him perform the operation adjusted his spectacles to his nose so as not to lose a single movement, but when the spectacles were in place the operation was over and the severed arm lay on the floor. Times have changed much since then.

Dr. Johnson's Church.

St. Clement Danes has never forgotten the fact that Johnson worshiped within its walls. The pew in which he sat (it is in the north gallery, close to the pulpit) is marked by a brass plate which was erected by the parishioners in 1851. In December, 1884, the centenary of Dr. Johnson's death was observed by a memorial service, when a special address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Lindsay, at that time rector of St. Clement Danes. Johnson's pew was on that occasion draped in violet. Johnson was always constant in his attendance at church on Good Friday and Easter day. On April 9, 1773, he went with Boswell. "His behavior," writes Boswell, "was, as I had imagined to myself, solemnly devout. 'I shall never forget the tremulous earnestness with which he pronounced the awful petition' in the litany, 'In the hour of death and in the day of judgment, good Lord, deliver us!'"—London News.

Fine Art of Letter Opening.

In Russia one letter in every ten passing through the post is opened by the authorities as a matter of course. Indeed, the postal authorities of every country have experts who have raised letter opening to a fine art. Some kinds of paper can be steamed open without leaving any traces, and this simple operation is finished by reburnishing the flap with a bone instrument. In the case of a seal a matrix is taken by means of new bread before breaking the wax. When other methods fail the envelope is placed between pieces of wood with edge projecting one-twentieth of an inch. The edge of the envelope is first flattened, then roughened and finally slit open. Later a hair line of strong white gum is applied and the edges united under pressure.—London Chronicle.

Charity and Prudence.

The contradictions of life are many. An observant man remarked recently that he was prowling about a certain city square when he came upon a drinking fountain which bore two conflicting inscriptions.

One, the original inscription on the fountain, was from the Bible. "And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Above this hung a placard, "Please do not waste the water."—Youth's Companion.

Stewed Deers' Horns.

Deers' horns when young may form a dish for human consumption. Sir S. W. Baker writes, "When the large horns of the sambur, or wapiti, are growing they make an excellent dish, first scalded to divest them of down and then gently stewed with a good sauce and a few vegetables."—London Mail.

Her Description.

Muggins—Women have such queer ways of expressing themselves. Buggins—Such as? Muggins—Well, my wife was telling me about Miss Yellowleaf and said she was a sight to behold and in the very next breath said she wasn't fit to be seen.—Philadelphia Record.

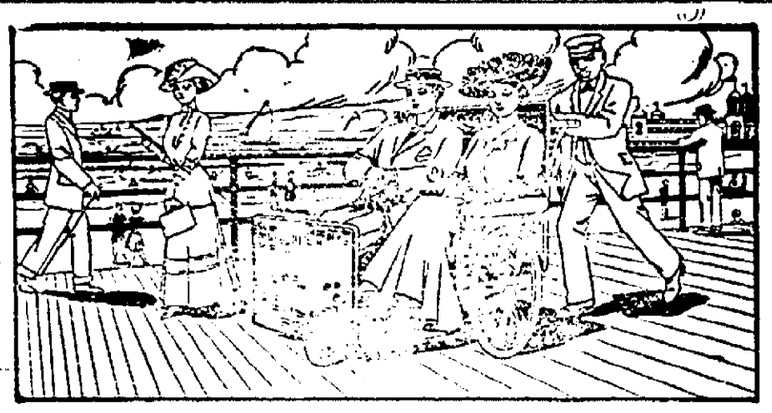
Rural Amenities.

Fair Passenger—But, good gracious, why didn't the train stop here? It is supposed to. Porter—Yes, miss, but the engine driver has quarreled with the station master.—Pele Mele.

A Conclusion.

"Her husband doesn't smoke, drink, chew, swear or play cards."

"Introduce me. Widows are my specialty."—Houston Post.



PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

AEROPLANE RACES

Aviation Week at Atlantic City

It is not a far cry back to "Darius Green and his flyin' machine" when aerial navigation was considered impossible.

Today Atlantic City is preparing for a great Aviation Meet from July 2 to 11, when three of the greatest flyers of the modern world will demonstrate their mastery of the air.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the holder of the world's record for speed, will fly daily from July 4 to 11.

Walter E. Brookins, who holds the record for high flying, will give exhibitions July 7 to 11 in a Wright aeroplane.

This is the first contest between the Wright and Curtiss machine.

It is also expected that Charles K. Hamilton, the great long distance aviator, will be present and race from July 7 to 11.

There will be prize events each day, including a fifty-mile flight over a five mile circular course, and prize high flying, July 7 to 11, directly over the beach front and ocean.

The Pennsylvania Railroad special sixteen-day excursion from Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania to Atlantic City and other seashore points on June 30, offers an excellent opportunity to witness these novel events at a minimum expense.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is the direct route to Atlantic City, and excursion tickets are on sale from all points. Connections are made in Broad Street Station, with trains via the Deleware River Bridge, all-rail route.

CONVENTION DECIDEDLY NOT OF CUT AND DRIED ORDER

Considerable Ginger Injected Into Proceedings

CAROTHERS NOT ENDORSED

Congressman Tener Not Resigned Yet, and Conferees Are Not Named

The meeting of the Republican county committee at Washington yesterday was an animated one, and although J. Frank McClay was elected county chairman, O. M. Henderson, secretary and George E. Lockhart treasurer without opposition, the proceedings were decidedly not of the cut and dried order. In view of the fact that the committee was delegated the power by the recent State convention to name conferees to join with conferees of the other counties of the district in nominating a Congressman to succeed John K. Tener, who is the candidate for Governor, considerable "ginger" was injected into the proceedings by the friends of candidates who seek the nomination.

This cropped out after the election of Chairman McClay, when the movement was apparent among the friends of Assemblyman C. E. Carothers to get an endorsement for him for Congress. As Congressman Tener has not yet resigned, and has not been officially notified of his nomination as Governor, it was not thought expedient by many of the committeemen present to appoint the conferees or make endorsements at this time. Accordingly D. M. McCloskey, Esq., who held the proxy of Wylie McCarthy as committeemen for the second Charleroi precinct, presented the following resolution:

We, the members of the Republican county committee of Washington county, in convention assembled do hereby declare and resolve; that

Whereas, a vacancy may occur in the nomination by the Republican party for the office of representative in Congress from the 24th Congressional district of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, in view of the fact that such vacancy has not yet occurred which would render null and void the selection of conferees to represent the county at this time; and

Whereas, any endorsement by this committee at the present time would be legally of no effect.

Whereas, the rules of the Republican party of the State provide for the selection of conferees by the several county commttees comprising said district; therefore it is hereby

Declared and resolved by this committee that if said vacancy shall occur, we do hereby delegate the selection of said conferees to the chairman and executive committee of the Republican party of Washington county, and we further instruct the conferees so selected that they use their fullest efforts to secure the nomination for Congress for a citizen of Washington county.

Before this came up for ballot an amendment endorsing C. E. Carothers for Congress was presented. This was declared out of order by Chairman McClay, amid a storm of protest on the part of Carothers' friends. A roll call on the McCloskey resolution showed that it had carried by a vote of 60 to 42, and the county chairman and executive committee will accordingly select the six conferees who will help to make the Congressional nomination to fill the impending vacancy when it occurs. There is a difference of opinion as to the legality of this proceeding, some contending that delegated, authority cannot be re-delegated while others claim that it is optional with the committee to select conferees as a majority may see fit.

After this proceeding the convention adopted resolutions commending the party harmony that prevails in Nation, State and county. President Taft's administration and the new tariff bill were endorsed, as well as the State party platform and the administration of Governor Stuart. The attitude of the party on the question of good roads was commended, and the county commissioners were handed some bouquets for their economical administration and for reducing the county tax levy. A tribute was paid John K. Tener, candidate for Governor, which is quoted editorially elsewhere in this issue.

Dr. F. L. Crow, committeeman of the first Charleroi precinct, presented the name of O. M. Henderson, who was chosen secretary of the county committee, and Councilman Oscar C. Linn, committeeman from the third precinct, was honored with a place on the committee on resolutions.

Inquest Will Be Held Wednesday

Coroner Heffran Announces Time for Investigation of Auto Accident

Coroner James T. Heffran has set Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock as the date for holding the inquest on the death of William Hamilton, and son Roy Hamilton, killed in the automobile accident Sunday afternoon. The inquest will be held at the undertaking rooms of Correll and Crowley.

HEMORRHAGE OF BRAIN INDUCED BY FALL, THE CAUSE OF MAN'S DEATH

Coroner Heffran Holds Inquest to Investigate Demise of Ernest Habester, Who Was Found On the Streets

An inquest was held last night by Coroner James T. Heffran at the undertaking rooms of Correll and Crowley on McKean avenue to inquire into the death of Ernest Habester, the man who was found injured on a vacant lot on McKean avenue last week and died in the hospital. The following vedict was returned by the jury:

"We, the jury, find that Ernest Habeser came to his death from hemorrhage of the brain on June 24, 1910, the said hemorrhage having been caused by a fall in the streets of Charleroi. We are satisfied from the evidence that there was no foul play in connection with the death, and we fully exonerate the police department of Charleroi from any blame whatever."

The jury consisted of William E. Harper, Dr. G. H. Smith, George Leith, Daniel Shields, Frank McCaffery and M. T. Crowley.

EX-PRESIDENT OF COLLEGE TO MAKE CLASS ADDRESS

Death of Member of Graduating Class of Douglas College Makes Change in Arrangements Necessary

Tonight 31 graduates of Douglas Busines college will receive their diplomas at the commencement exercises to be held at School Hall. The exercises will be somewhat saddened by the sudden death of one of the graduates, Leroy A. Hamilton, Sunday, and a chair will be draped for him.

The address to the class will be made by Rev. Arthur Staples, D. D., of the First Methodist Episcopal church of McKeesport and a former president of Beaver College. Prof. Warren Douglas of McKeesport will present the diplomas. Bossen's orchestra will furnish music for commencement.

The class valedictorian is Miss Ida Mary Good of West Brownsville. Her address will be on the topic, "The Power of Little Things." The salutatory will be said by Miss Clara G. Beigel of Charleroi, her subject to be the class motto, "I'll Find a Way or Make One." A demonstration of touch typewriting will be given by Misses May Barth, Ruth McCrory and Normal S. Hall. The class history will be read by J. B. G. Roberts and a class in rapid calculation will be conducted by Prof. Charles Menz. The invocation will be said by Rev. J. T. Hackett and the benediction by Rev. L. W. Shey.

COUNCIL WILL PROVIDE SANITARY ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FOURTH

All Preparations Being Made for Handling of Large Crowd in Charleroi on Independence Day

Council at a special called meeting last night discussed plans for handling the crowd here on the Fourth of July, and made arrangements for providing temporary sanitary arrangements. The temporary watering troughs for horses will be provided. Councilman Linn reported that two places could be secured for permanent hitching posts, one on Fifth street, above Lindsay's store, and others on Fallowfield avenue, between Third and Fourth streets. The street committee was instructed to place at the disposal of the Fourth of July committee the flag pole for use in decorating "The Pines" for the speakers' stand.

CATHOLICS WIPE UP WASHINGTON AVE. PRESBYS.

Protested on Grounds That St. Jerome's Used Professional Catcher

The Catholics gave the Washington Avenues an awful drubbing last night in what, despite the high score from one side, was a good game. The contest was played under protest of the Washington Avenues on account of Catcher Courtley, who is claimed to be a professional. The Catholics scored 13 of their 14 scores in the first three innings after which Stroud retired from the mound in favor of Fontanesi. Their final run came in the fourth on a hit, an error and an out. The Washington avenues scored in the second the third, the sixth and the seventh, through playing the game for all it was worth, but the terrible lead established by the Catholics was too great an obstacle to think of overcoming. The score:

FOSTER SON CHARGED WITH THEFT OF MONEY AND WATCH

Had Only Been Back From Several Months Stay With Relatives in Ohio

The Charleroi police and police of other towns and cities in Western Pennsylvania have been notified of the disappearance of Edward Tague, the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers of 617 Meadow avenue, and are trying to locate the boy. He disappeared Sunday, and at the same time $51, a gold watch and fob, with the initials "A. J. L." on the fob and a revolver disappeared from the Rogers' home, the theft of all being blamed on the boy.

Young Tague ran away last January, and only returned home three weeks ago, having been at the home of Mrs. Rogers' brother in Ohio. He did not seem discontented, and made no excuse for his protracted absence. Sunday nothing unusual was noticed in his behavior, and about noon, he remarked that he was going to a neighbor's for a short while, and would be back. He failed to return and the loss of the money was noticed.

The boy had been with the Rogers' family for 10 years, having been secured from the Orphan's home in Perry county, Ohio, when he was six years old. When he left here he wore a blue shirt, black shoes, and had on a derby hat. He is 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighs 152 pounds, having dark brown hair and eyes. On the right side of his face there is a scar.

Sunday School Planning Outing

Pupils of St. Mary's Episcopal School Will Go To Lynn's Grove

Arrangements are being made by Superintendent E. W. Rote and members of the Sunday School of St. Mary's Episcopal church for the annual picnic and outing to be held at Lynn's Grove, near Belle Vernon, on July 7. The outing will be for the entire day.

ALL THREE MAY LIVE

Victims of Auto Accident Improved in Health This Morning

Anna Hamilton, the young woman who it was thought was fatally injured in the automobile accident above Speers Sunday, is improved this morning, and Dr. A. O. Davis, who is in charge of the patients at the Monessen-Charleroi hospital, states that he is much pleased with her condition. Mrs. Hamilton and Blanche Matheney are also much better. The change of Anna's condition has given much room for hope for her complete recovery, and the improvement in the others is also indicative that they will get well.

New Bank for Brownsville

Monongahela Railroad Officials Backing New Enterprise Up the River

Brownsville is to have a new bank soon, according to rumor from an authentic source. The bank is to be established by some of the men who are backing the Monongahela railroad, and is for the present to be established in what is known as the Rogers Block. A new building is one of the plans of the near future. It is the intention to make the bank one for carrying on a general banking business and not a trust company. The men back of the project are unusually reticent on the matter, but the rumor which has gained good foundation, is not denied.

Miss Jessie Everhart Purchases McDonald Studio

Miss Jessie Everhart, who for some time has been employed in Babbitt's studio on McKean avenue, has purchased the photograhic studio of D. H McDonald at the corner of Fifth srteet and Fallowfield avenue. The purchase was completed Saturday, and Miss Everhart has taken charge. She will make some improvements and go into the photographic work on a large scale. She will devote her entire time to portrait work in which she has much experience, having for some time previous to coming to Charleroi being employed in the largest studio in Johnstown. She is arranging for an opening which will likely be bel the latter part of this week.

An Appeal to Voters

In the resolutions adopted yesterday by the Republican county committee at Washington, a special appeal is made to the voters of Washington county to support John K. Tener of Charleroi, Reupblican nominee for the Governor, in the interests of county pride. Concerning Mr. Tener the resolution is as follows:

"When we come to a consideration of the candidates offered by the Republican party we feel that so far as Washington county is concerned, an appeal should be made to every voter of the county regardless of political affiliations, who has any pride in his home county, who would rejoice in the opportunity to confer a high honor upon a deserving and ideal citizen of the Commonwealth who is a resident of our own county and who has its interests at heart.

"We do not believe that this opportunity granted to us, who are neighbors, acquaintances and friends of the Hon. John K. Tener, who are anxious and willing in this issue and arbitrament to become his 'character witnesses,' should be neglected in testifying to every man in our Commonwealth of whatever party, who has the right of suffrage, that in choosing him as Governor of what we believe to be the greatest State in the union, they shall have selected a man who stands four squares as the ideal Americancitizen, selfmade industrious, with a character beyond reproach, with a just pride in a well earned reputation, for the highest integrity which will insure the strictest honesty in the administration of the affairs of our great Commonwealth.

"We who know John K. Tener intimately and who know his methods, which are frequently criticized as not being those of a politician, know that what he says he will do, and we also know that no influence could be brought to bear upon him which would lead him to do anything he did not believe was just, fair, honest and for the best interests of the humblest citizen.

"While not a politician, he has demonstrated that no politician can use him, and like Roosevelt, his success has come to him by reason of the fact that the plain people knew he was trustworthy and honest.

"Having made his own way up the ladder of success, every additional rung being gained by the belief of his superiors in his worth, honesty and faithfulness, he has always stood ready to lend a hand to those less fortunate than he who are making the same arduous climb, and in this town of Charleroi, there are children who are getting the chance in life that this American government undertakes to guarantee by reason of the unostentatious charity of the big hearted John K. Tener."

The balance of the State ticket, as well as the candidates for State Senate and Legislature, are also commended, and by reason of their selection by popular vote there is no valid reason why any Republican should not give them his unqualified support.

Safe and Sane

Now is the time for parents and citizens generally to consider the true import of a safe and sane Fourth. Burgess Risbeck has issued a proclamation prohibiting within the borough the use of dynamite crackers and other highly dangerous explosives, besides cautioning care in the use of the ordinary gunpowder fire crackers. A Fourth without some sort of a demonstration would be considered un-American, but there is altogether too many fatalities and accidents in the celebration of the glorious anniversary to give no heed to the warnings issued.

Last year, according to the most avaliable statistics, there were 5,807 persons killed and wounded in the United States celebrating the annversary of American independence, for which the soldiers of the Revolution fought, bled and died According to Bancroft's History of the United States, in seven battles of the Revolution—Lexington, Bunker Hill, Fort Moultrie, White Plains, Fort Washington, Monmouh and Cowpens—the total killed and wounded numbered but 1,119, while in seven years -1903 to 1909 inclusive--the killed and wounded from Fourth of July celebrations in the United States numbered 84,603.

With this dreadful annual slaughter staring the American people in the face it behooves parents to keep an eye on their young hopefuls and see how they expend their Fourth of July money. By keeping tab on the boy that date a big saving in undertaking and doctors' bills may be effected. A safe and sane Fourth has a most startling significance in the homes of this country.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Sunday was anything but a quiet day.

It is amusing how the railroad and trolley companies adjust the maps to suit themselves, the purpose of course being to prove that their lines are direct or nearly direct.

All things have an end, except eternity. Even Congress is not eternity.

They say that there is a fish called the sturgeon that swims the Atlantic. Who's going to prove it?

Amateur photography is said to be on the wane. It is impossible for a person of the ordinary income to follow both automobiling and photography as a pleasure so this may be one of the reasons.

Somebody has declared that there is humbug in pugilism, meaning of course that it's sort a moving picture affair with the final results to suit the man who takes the pictures.

The only thing which might go out of date quicker than a woman's hat is a battle ship.

It's rather hard to tell just who will win the big fight from the opinions of the experts, but there is conclusive evidence that it will be either Jack Johnston or Jim Jeffries.

While an areoplane may mean that women won't care so much for high priced hats and gowns, it is to be feared that they will care more for silk stockings and high heeled shoes.

The American super dreadnaughts are quartered mostly in the Pacific ocean, because the English superdreadnaughts have the Atlantic choked up.

NASAL CATARRH

Henry L. Britton Says it is Easy to Get Rid Of.

"My head, nose and glands leading to my eyes and nose were stopped up and swollen. I tried several so-called catarrh cures, but Hyomei, used thoroughly did the curing. There is nothing too good to say in favor of Hyomei. It cured my nasal catarrh."—Henry L. Britton, Frost St. Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Hyomei, pronounced Highome, cures catarrh, because it gets where the germs are and destroys them. It is made of Australian eucalyptus, mixed with other healing antiseptics. When breathed over the irritated and inflamed membrane, it gives relief in two mintues.

Used regularly for a few weeks it will build up and heal the germ-infested membrane and drive out catarrh.

If you own a small Hyomei pocket inhaler, you can get a bottle of Hyomei at druggists everywhere, or at Piper Bros. for only 50 cents. If you do not own a Hyomei inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, the price is $1.00. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup or sore throat or money back. 1K4

FUNERAL OF MRS. JOHNSTON ATTENDED BY MANY FRIENDS

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Johnston, who died at the Monessen-Charleroi hospital Saturday morning, was held from the Washington avenue Prebyterian church yesterday afternoon, and was attended by large numbers of friends the deceased. The services were conducted by Rev. G. G. Kerr, pastor of the church. Interment was in the Fayette City cemetery. The floral offerings were numerous.

Garden In the Ice.

A glacier when it dislodges itself and sails away over the Arctic ocean never travels alone In the wake of every large one floats a line of similar companions The Eskimos call this phenomenon "the duck and ducklings," and any one who has watched the progress of the wild duck followed by her brood will appreciate the aptitude of the name Strange as it may seem, plants grow and blossom upon these great ice mountains When a glacier is at rest moss attaches itself to it, protecting the ice beneath, just as sawdust does After a time the moss decays and forms a soil, in which the seeds of buttercups and dandelions, brought by the wind, take root and flourish Those who have traveled much in arctic lands say the poppy does not bloom during the brief northern summer.

Hairs Upon Horses' Lips.

The fine hairs about the mouth of the horse are organs of touch of extreme delicacy They serve to a certain extent the same purpose as our finger ends, the whiskers of the cat or the trunk of the elephant. Sensitiveness is due to specially developed endings of nerves in the skin, which are continually sending messages to the brain The lip hairs of the horse first receive the stimulus which is communicated to the end organs and so passes on to the brain. They come into play when the horse samples a new article of food He first smells it and, having so far satisfied himself, touches it delicately with those sensitive hairs The upper lip moves softly in quick sympathy and confirms the opinion suggested by the hairs. The tongue judges finally as to the fitness of the food When the horse wishes to drink these hairs assure him that the water is free from foreign matter on the surface, for he drinks from the surface only. They detect the smallest particle of dirt and guide him to the purest place.

The Simple Diet.

There is a certain banker and broker doing business not a hundred miles from the bank, says a London weekly, whose health for some time has not been all that he could desire Not long ago he was complaining to his brother, when the latter after a careful survey of his brother's countenance said.

"What you need, old man, is plain country food Come to my place in the country and we'll soon set you up This rich food is proving too much for you. Take breakfast, for instance. All I have is two cups of coffee, a bit of steak with a baked potato, some light muffins or a stack of buttered toast, together with a bit of watercress or lettuce. What do you have?"

For a moment the city banker gazed in hearty admiration at his brother.

"A cup of hot water and two slices of dry toast," he replied soberly. "But, Jim, if you think a simple diet like yours will 'set me up,' why, I'm perfectly willing to try it."

The Story of "Hard Hit."

"Mr. Orchardson, if I thought that by killing you I could paint a picture like yours I would stab you to the heart." Such was the remark made by Pellegrini, the famous caricaturist, to the Royal academician, Sir William Orchardson, when at a private view he first saw "Hard Hit," the picture of the ruined gambler "It was," said the artist "the greatest compliment I could have had" Curiously enough, the model who sat for the ruined gamester was rather fond of cards himself. One day the artist noticed that he looked somewhat depressed. "What is the matter?" he asked. "I was awfully hard hit last night," he answered. "By Jove," replied the artist, jumping up with delight, "I've got it at last! 'Hard Hit,' of course' And that is how the picture got its name.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are the squaring of the circle, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the elixir of life, magic and astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have toiled early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone. In the study of astrology Lilly was for a time even pensioned by parliament

Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another The craze for the secret, or unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.

To Take No Chances.

Hamlar—Why in the dickens have you got that string tied around your tooth?

Absente—To remind me that I must have the tooth removed

Hamlar—But, goodness gracious, why don't you do as ordinary people and have the string tied around your finger?

Absente (stiffly)—Because, sir, I don't care to have my finger removed.—Chicago News.

Mistake of a Comma.

This instance of what a mistake of a comma can produce has been noticed:

"Lord Palmerston then entered upon his head, a white hat upon his feet, large but well polished boots upon his brow, a dark cloud in his hand, his faithful walking stick in his eye, a dark menacing glare saying nothing."—Circle Magazine.

Language of Switzerland

It is a curious fact that the people most celebrated for love of country should in a manner be without a language—that is, a mother tongue The Swiss have three official languages—German French and Italian About three-fourths of the population of the mountain confederation speak German, while the remainder divide four other languages among them, chiefly French and Italian, these languages being found, as a rule, in districts in close proximity to the countries wherein those languages are the principal tongue In Switzerland documents and notices are printed in both the French and German languages. In the national assembly members deliver their speeches in either French or German, for nearly all members understand both tongues The decrees and proclamations of the president are translated by an official interpreter and furnished to the press in both languages.—New York Press.

Her Fault.

The teacher in charge of the primary department at a school in West Philadelphia was talking the other day about her work and her pupils.

"They are dear youngsters," she said, "but they sometimes make curious remarks Several times I have had occasion to reprove a little boy who isn't bad, but who is very mischievous and annoying. He is always getting into trouble and making a disturbance.

"One day he had been more than usually uproarious, and I was very tired. Instead of scolding or punishing him I began in rather an exasperated tone to talk to him

"'Tom,' I said, 'I'm afraid I'm never going to meet you in heaven.'

"He looked up with the most shocked face. 'Why, teacher,' he said, 'isn't that just too bad? What have you done?'"—Philadelphia Times.

Quite So.

"There seems to be a strange affinity between a darky and a chicken."

"Naturally One is descended from Ham and the other from eggs."—Housekeeper

The Social Breakfast.

A London newspaper wonders why we no longer invite people to breakfast. The reason is to be found in the state of mind that usually possesses the free and independent citizen at that hour in the morning, a state of mind that makes him unbearable to himself and to every one who comes near him. Presumably it was not ever so, for invitations to breakfast were once common enough, and not so long ago either. Mr. Gladstone used to have guests to breakfast every Thursday morning as recently as 1884, and it was thought sufficient to supply tea and coffee, eggs, bread and butter and perhaps some cold meat. But the really solid breakfast had come into fashion long before then, and it is said that the English learned the fashion from the Scotch. Motley, when he was ambassador to England, found that the substantial breakfast was grievously opposed to the simpler customs of his own country. He says, "When I reflected that all these people would lunch at 2 and dine at 5, I bowed my head in humiliation, and the fork dropped from my nerveless grasp."—Argonaut.

Big Clocks.

The big clock of the Metropolitan tower at Madison square, New York, is by long odds the costliest and most elaborate public timepiece ever constructed and is the only great clock in the world operated wholly by electricity without the touch of human hands. Some of its other wonders are its size, being the largest four dial tower clock and the third largest clock of any size in the world, and its altitude, which is the highest of any clock in the world. It has also the biggest and heaviest striking bell.

The other three largest clocks are the one face dial of the Colgate factory in Jersey City, which is forty feet across, the next in size of mammoth public chronometers being the dial at St. Bombort's, in the old city of Malines, in Belgium, which is thirty-nine feet across. St. Peter's of Zurich, Switzerland, has a dial face twenty-nine feet, and then in order comes the Metropolitan tower clock, which is twenty-six feet six inches in diameter

The Harm of Damp Houses.

It is dangerous to health and even to life in a damp, moldy house or one built over a moldy cellar. Many years ago the London Lancet in an article on diphtheria traced the disease in certain cases to the presence of certain molds and fungoid growths which seemed to be breathed into the throat. Remember, one of the best disinfectants is lime. Moldy cloths, such as shoes and other articles that are unfit for use, should be destroyed at once.

Why He Applauded.

"Are you fond of music?" asked a stranger of the young man at the concert who was applauding vigorously after a pretty girl had sung a song in a very painful way.

"Not particularly," replied the young man frankly, "but I am extremely fond of the musician."

Out of Her Reach.

"Does your heart ever reach out for the unattainable?"

"No, but my hands do when my husband is not at home. There are three buttons at the back of my gown that I can't reach."

More Appropriate.

"I teach my parrot only short words."

"Do you? Now, I should think that parrots were better adapted to learning polysyllables."

Going Round the World.

In sailing around the world eastward the days are each a little less than twenty-four hours, according to the speed of the ship, as the sun is met a little earlier every morning. These little differences added together will amount to twenty-four hours. This gives the sailors an extra day—not in imagination, but as an actual fact. They will have done an extra day's work, eaten an extra day's ration of food and imbibed an extra day's allowance of grog.

On the other hand, in sailing westward the sun is overtaken a little each day, and so each day is rather longer than twenty-four hours, and clocks and watches are found to be too fast. This also will amount in sailing around the world to the point of departure to one whole day by which the reckoning has fallen in arrears. The eastern bound ship, then, has gained a day, and the western bound ship has lost one. This strange fact, clearly worked out, leads to the apparent paradox that the first named ship has a gain of two whole days over the latter, if we suppose them to have departed from port and returned together.—Philadelphia Record.

Modern Gold Mining.

Up until about 1850 only placer or surface gold was mined—that is, free gold deposited in the beds of streams, in sands and in the crevices of rocks. Placer mining, mainly in new and remote regions, still furnishes a material though not a large percentage of the world's output. Formerly the alluvial gold was separated from the sands and gravels containing it by washing them in pans, cradles, rockers and sluices. In 1852 the hydraulic method was first employed in California. By this means a "giant" stream of water turned against the side of a mountain washes everything before it. The gold settles to the bottom of the tunnel or sluice through which the gravel, sand and water flow. In 1889 dredges or excavators were first used in Australia. Today steam and electric dredges produce a considerable portion of the world's output.—Byron W. Holt in Everybody's.

Why Boiled Water Freezes Easily.

Water which is hot of course cannot freeze until it has parted with its heat, but water that has been boiled will, other things being equal, freeze sooner than water which has not been boiled. A slight disturbance of water disposes it to freeze more rapidly, and this is the cause which accelerates the freezing of boiled water. The water that has been boiled has lost the air naturally contained in it, which on exposure to the atmosphere it begins again to attract and absorb. During this process of absorption a motion is necessarily produced among its particles, slight certainly and imperceptible, yet probably sufficient to accelerate its congelation. In unboiled water this disturbance does not exist. Indeed, water when kept perfectly still can be reduced several degrees below the freezing point without its becoming ice.

Life and a Living.

Many a man has made a good living who has made a poor life. Some men have made splendid lives who have made very moderate and even scanty livings.

A Hard Task.

"Now, sir," said an Irish barrister with severity to a loquacious witness, "hold your tongue and give your evidence clearly!"

Happiness consists largely in being too busy to be miserable.—Sheldon.

The Peanut.

The common peanut, beloved of the small boy, grows in a way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots, with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As pigs are said to be especially fond of these, it has been suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

System Required.

Clerk—May I have a day's leave tomorrow, sir? It is my mother-in-law's funeral. Employer—My dear [illegible], this mustn't occur again. Last week your wife died, and now your mother-in-law's going to be buried. You must arrange things better in your family and see that they happen in the holidays.—Lustige Blatter.

Unkind.

Medical Man—Jobson has done the meanest thing I ever heard of. He came to my house the other night, ate a big dinner, got indigestion and then went to another doctor to be cured.

Cheering Him Up.

New Boarder—How's the fare here?

Old Boarder—Well, we have chicken every morning.

"That's first rate. How is it served?"

"In the shell."

The Way of It.

Knicker—Life is an irony.

Bocker—Yes. By the time you have the money for a grand stand seat your home team no longer wins.—New York Sun.

We make our fortunes; we call them fate.—Alroy.

A Bismarck Incident.

It used to be the privilege of Austria's representative at any conference of representatives of the German states to smoke, the others refraining. This was supposed to be an acknowledgment of Austria's supremacy. At the first conference that Bismarck attended as Prussia's representative he began to puff smoke across the conference table as soon as the Austrian diplomat lit up. That set everybody present to smoking on equal terms, and Austria's supremacy got a blow.

A Timely Warning.

"Your dog seems a very intelligent animal," remarked an inexperienced sportsman to a gamekeeper.

"Yessir," was the ready response. "Wonderful intelligent 'e is! Yes, t'other day 'e bit a gent as only give me a 'arf sovereign after a day's shoot!"—London Scraps.

Her Dear Friend.

Susie—Now, when I'm asked to sing I never say, "Oh, I can't!" I always sit down at the piano— Jennie—And let the audience find it out for themselves?—Illustrated Bits.

The First Step.

Young Woman (before milliner's window, to her maid)—That hat is perfectly lovely. I must have it. Marie, be sure to remind me to kiss my husband when I get home.

Quickly Subdued.

Von Blumer (roaring with rage)—Who told you to put paper on the wall? Decorator—Your wife, sir. Von Blumer—Pretty, isn't it?

Looks like ever'thing in the world comes right if we jes' wait long enough. —Mrs. Wiggs.

Stories of Frederick the Great.

In the course of some military evolutions Frederick the Great of Prussia, irritated by some mistake of a captain, ran after him with his stick in order to strike him. The captain ran away. The next morning the commanding officer reported to the king that the officer in question, one of the most efficient in the regiment, had sent in his papers. "Tell him to come to me," said the king. The officer, in great perturbation, came. "Good morning, major," he apostrophized the officer, who was speechless with surprise. "I wanted to tell you of your promotion, but you ran so fast I could not catch you up. Good morning."

Another time an officer attempted to get a comrade into bad odor with the king by telling his majesty that he was a drunkard. In a subsequent battle the latter's fitness was conspicuous, whereas his slanderer played a very poor part. When afterward he defiled past the king at the head of his regiment his majesty called out to him in a voice of thunder, "The sooner you take to drink the better!"

The Old Time Surgeon.

Before anaesthetics were known the surgeon's only expedient was to abridge his patient's sufferings by working rapidly. In this the old time surgeons did wonders. They had a control and a surety in their hands that are now seldom found. One day the celebrated surgeon Maisonneuve had to amputate the leg of a poor devil, who began to howl in advance. "I'll give you my watch," said the surgeon, "if the operation lasts more than a minute." The man accepted the offer, but was obliged to forego the handsome watch, as the operation took less time than it requires to describe. To amputate an arm at the shoulder is a most difficult operation. Dr. Langenbeck of Germany did it in two minutes. A young physician who came to see him perform the operation adjusted his spectacles to his nose so as not to lose a single movement, but when the spectacles were in place the operation was over and the severed arm lay on the floor. Times have changed much since then.

Dr. Johnson's Church.

St. Clement Danes has never forgotten the fact that Johnson worshiped within its walls. The pew in which he sat (it is in the north gallery, close to the pulpit) is marked by a brass plate which was erected by the parishioners in 1857. In December, 1884, the centenary of Dr. Johnson's death was observed by a memorial service, when a special address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Lindsay, at that time rector of St. Clement Danes. Johnson's pew was on that occasion draped in violet. Johnson was always constant in his attendance at church on Good Friday and Easter day. On April 9, 1773, he went with Boswell. "His behavior," writes Boswell, "was, as I had imagined to myself, solemnly devout. I shall never forget the tremulous earnestness with which he pronounced the awful petition' in the litany, 'In the hour of death and in the day of judgment, good Lord, deliver us!'"—London News.

Fine Art of Letter Opening.

In Russia one letter in every ten passing through the post is opened by the authorities as a matter of course. Indeed, the postal authorities of every country have experts who have raised letter opening to a fine art. Some kinds of paper can be steamed open without leaving any traces, and this simple operation is finished by reburnishing the flap with a bone instrument. In the case of a seal a matrix is taken by means of new bread before breaking the wax. When other methods fail the envelope is placed between pieces of wood with edge projecting one-twentieth of an inch. The edge of the envelope is first flattened, then roughened and finally slit open. Later a hair line of strong white gum is applied and the edges united under pressure.—London Chronicle.

Charity and Prudence.

The contradictions of life are many. An observant man remarked recently that he was prowling about a certain city square when he came upon a drinking fountain which bore two conflicting inscriptions.

One, the original inscription on the fountain, was from the Bible. "And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

Above this hung a placard, "Please do not waste the water."—Youth's Companion.

Stewed Deers' Horns.

Deers' horns when young may form a dish for human consumption. Sir S. W. Baker writes, "When the large horns of the sambur, or wapiti, are growing they make an excellent dish. first scalded to divest them of down and then gently stewed with a good sauce and a few vegetables."—London Mail.

Her Description.

Muggins—Women have such queer ways of expressing themselves! Buggins—Such as? Muggins—Well, my wife was telling me about Miss Yellowleaf and said she was a sight to behold and in the very next breath said she wasn't fit to be seen.—Philadelphia Record.

Rural Amenities.

Fair Passenger—But, good gracious, why didn't the train stop here? It is supposed to. Porter—Yes, miss, but the engine driver has quarreled with the station master.—Pele Mele.

A Conclusion.

"Her husband doesn't smoke, drink, chew, swear or play cards."

"Introduce me. Widows are my specialty."—Houston Post.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

AEROPLANE RACES

Aviation Week at Atlantic City

It is not a far cry back to "Darius Green and his flyin' machine" when aerial navigation was considered impossible.

Today Atlantic City is preparing for a great Aviation Meet from July 2 to 11, when three of the greatest flyers of the modern world will demonstrate their mastery of the air.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the holder of the world's record for speed, will fly daily from July 4 to 11.

Walter E. Brookins, who holds the record for high flying, will give exhibitions July 7 to 11 in a Wright aeroplane.

This is the first contest between the Wright and Curtiss machine.

It is also expected that Charles K. Hamilton, the great long distance aviator, will be present and race from July 7 to 11.

There will be prize events each day, including a fifty-mile flight over a five mile circular course, and prize high flying, July 7 to 11, directly over the beach front and ocean.

The Pennsylvania Railroad special sixteen-day excursion from Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania to Atlantic City and other seashore points on June 30, offers an excellent opportunity to witness these novel events at a minimum expense.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is the direct route to Atlantic City, and excursion tickets are on sale from all points. Connections are made in Broad Street Station, with trains via the Deleware River Bridge, all-rail route.
